THE NEW CHALLENGES OF CYBER SECURITY

The continuous evolution of the Cyber Security scenario requires an integrated approach by the various stakeholders, who are called upon to contribute to the fight against cyber crime.

The organisations' commitment to protecting clients, services, and infrastructures must be associated to an information sharing policy to create a united front between productive sectors and the countries involved.

This approach is in line with that promoted by the European Commission, which, in February 2013, defined the EU Cyber Security Directive, according to which, Member States must take joint actions to combat cyber-crime and promote "cyber resilience" through public-private partnerships.
