

Services Provided by Collaboration Teams of Cyber Security Division (Col CSD)

The Cyber Security and Technology Crime Bureau (CSTCB) strives to prevent technology crime through education and partnership so as to raise the crime prevention awareness of the public.

Col CSD under CSTCB provides the following services to all members of the public in Hong Kong:

- Technology crime information

One of the key duties of Col CSD is to help the public to prevent from being victims of technology crime. We often provide information on technology crime prevention, common tactics of swindlers, as well as professional advice to the public for reference through the television programme Police Magazine or other publicity measures. On the other hand, CSTCB has proactively liaised with major Internet service providers. Publicity messages have also been uploaded to related websites so as to enhance the alertness of the online auction participants or online shoppers.

- Talks and presentations on security awareness

Officers of Col CSD work in close partnership with related departments and agencies such as Hong Kong Computer Emergency Response Team Coordination Centre (HKCERT) and Office of the Government Chief Information Officer (OGCIO). Col CSD regularly holds crime prevention seminars and publicity campaigns jointly with the banking sector, the finance sector as well as small and medium enterprises to advise the public on the trend of technology crime, in order to raise their awareness on technology crime prevention.
